

Can the candidates handle the truth?

A POLYGRAPH company has offered a free lie-detector test to each of the Presidential candidates.

Lie Detector Ireland said the Irish public had the right to know if the runners were telling the truth.

'We've all watched the debates, we've heard the sound-bites and we've followed the dramas as they've unfolded, and I'm sure we all have questions for each of the candidates' said managing director Sian Devine. 'The voting public should have the right to put a question to each of the candidates which elicits a truthful response'.

Published Friday 21st October 2011 in the Metro Herald